

Growing Information

Colocasia thrive in humid conditions. Ample soil moisture is a must. If planting in a container, consider a self watering type with a reservoir. Larger pots will allow room for the underground corm and cormels to grow. When frost threatens, bring plants indoors to overwinter. For best results provide a southern exposure and don't let soil dry out. Wait for the last frost to plant outside.

Hawaiian Eye Large dark greenish-purple leaves with a matte finish and a small circular-shaped dark burgundy colored 'piko' and semi-glossy dark burgundy colored stems. Height: 48-60".

Pineapple Princess Large yellow-green leaves with light purple veins, a matte finish, undulating purple leaf margins, burgundy colored stems. Height: 36".

Hilo Bay Large glossy, olive-green slightly oval leaves that are ruffled or corrugated in texture and have an undulating margin, and dark purple stems that produce multiple secondary shoots attached to the mother plant on short stolons. Height: 48".

Blue Hawaii A combination of large green leaves with prominent bluish-purple veins, an undulating bluish-purple margin, matte finish and semi-glossy dark burgundy colored stems. Height: 48".

Diamond Head A combination of large dark purple to black leaves with a spectacular glossy finish and a small circular-shaped dark burgundy colored 'piko' and semi-glossy dark burgundy colored stems. Height: 48" to 60".

- Hardiness: USDA Zone 7b (5° F); frost will trigger dormancy.
- Exposure: Full sun for best color.
- Soil: Rich, moist. Colocasia are wetland plants. Burnt leafedges can be a sign of under-watering.
- Temperature: The warmer the better for fast growth.
- Fertilizing: Avoid over-feeding.
